General Excavating

Underneath it All

Ayars & Ayars, Inc. enhanced the front facade of this pre-engineered metal building with an architectural canopy, highlighting the work of our masons and metals specialists. Once inside the office, brick continues to be a major design element; culminating in Jay Tschetter's unique brick depiction of General Excavating. We are proud of our large number of repeat clients - since the completion of this project we have returned on several occasions to increase the footprint of the building and create space for General Excavating's landscaping division.
